Pre-School Activities: Mommy/Daddy, I'm Bored!

Learn to spend quality time with your child with games that not only draw you closer together, but also help the child learn and grow. Enriching quality time games are presented in this very useful show: household chores games, basic skills games, creative games, artistic expression games, togetherness games, affective games, values games, etc.

DHU514 $98 DVD

Families Of All Shapes: Where Did You Come From?

This video deals with feelings surrounding the family unit, following up with examples that explore families from the President, to a popular movie figure, to the family next door. The ability to learn from family situations and then being able to evaluate likes and dislikes is another focus of this video designed to link the family, whatever the shape and size, together.

DHU518 $98 DVD

Child Management: Who's Really In Charge?

This practical show looks at why child management is important and distinguishes between "good" management and "bad" management. Bad child management uses force and power to control, creates anger and resentment, and invites more conflict. Specific Do's and Don'ts techniques are presented for parents such as: realistic expectations, stable limits, how behaviors have consequences, use of distraction and substitute activities, how to pick your battle, etc. This is a great show for the parent or student that wants to know the "how" as well as the "why."

DHU512 $98 DVD

Children Of Single Parents: Where'd My Other Parent Go?

This video looks at the many different kinds of single parenting families prevalent today. It also explores the common feelings generated in children as members of single parent families. Emphasizing understanding and listening skills, the show encourages parents to understand there is a grieving process for the child whether the loss is through divorce or through death. It also encourages respect for the child's feelings for the relationship with the other parent in the separation/divorce process. The need for structure, rules, parent "free time," and other male/female role models are also discussed.
